

CLINICAL RESEARCH CENTER

OF THE CAROLINAS™

For Immediate Release: November 1, 2016

For More Information, contact: Gail Bosworth, 843-795-7944

CLINICAL RESEARCH CENTER OF CAROLINAS EXPANDS IN WEST ASHLEY.

Charleston, SC, November 1, 2016—The nationally-regarded Clinical Research Center of the Carolinas (CRCC) moves into quadrupled space and freshly remodeled state-of-the-art headquarters this week at 1364 Ashley River Road, celebrating its eleven-year evolution into a full-service medical and dermatological research center founded and directed by Todd E. Schlesinger, MD, FAAD.

Callie Powell, Director of Research, explained that CRCC is an affiliate of Dermatology & Laser Center of Charleston and that it “networks with pharmaceutical companies, medical device manufacturers and other research organizations to conduct a wide range of clinical investigations, consumer trials and consultations for new or improved medical and OTC drugs, cosmeceuticals, medical devices and services.”

Led by Dr. Schlesinger, the CRCC team of physicians, physician assistants and clinical research coordinators are capable of handling all phases of clinical investigation and all stages of research processes. These include creating investigational concepts, writing an appropriate protocol to investigate the concept, carrying out the procedures of the protocol, conducting trials, analyzing the data and producing results manuscripts for publication. Such skills among the research team allow CRCC to engage in a range of advisory opportunities: from assisting pharmaceutical companies in developing their research protocols to consulting on educational programs such as those for medical assistants.

Powell said that CRCC hopes the work it puts into each clinical trial will help in expanding treatment options for patients and alleviate illness and suffering. Ginger Greene, Practice Administrator, noted that the spacious facility will also house offices as a second location for Dermatology & Laser Center of Charleston.

The Clinical Research Center of the Carolinas, is located at 1364 Ashley River Road, 843-556-8886.
www.dermandlaser.com
